

Visiting Little Sprouts Kitchen Garden at the Adelaide Botanic Garden

We are going to visit the Adelaide Botanic Garden

We can also call it the Botanic Garden

The Botanic Garden is a big garden in Adelaide that has lots of plants from all over the world

During your visit...

You will help us protect the Gardens with all its special and rare plants

You can eat your food here, but please don't eat any of the plants unless your Botanical Educator says it is okay!

During your visit...

You will stay on the pathways so we don't damage any plants

You can ask lots of questions

You can gently touch when your Botanical Educator says it's okay

You might need to use the bathroom after a long trip

These bathrooms are next to the Kitchen Garden

LITTLE SPROUTS IN THE KITCHEN GARDEN

Your Botanical Educator will meet you at the gate

It is called the Kitchen Garden because we grow fruits, vegetables and other food here!

You might like to put your bag down in our seed hut and have a drink before we get ready to learn!

We will do three different activities in the Kitchen Garden

We will be in the Kitchen Garden for 60 minutes (1 hour)

We will stay with our group and meet a new Botanical Educator at each station

We will sit on the mat and listen to our Botanical Educator

You can ask questions by putting your hand up

If sitting still is hard for you, you can stand with your teacher or adult at the back

One station will look at the worms in our worm farm

If you would like, you can even touch a worm!

Afterwards, it is important to wash our hands with soap and water

We will look at different seeds in the food we eat

You can plant your own seed in a small container to take home

Afterwards, it is important to wash our hands with soap and water

We will walk around the garden with our Botanical Educator and smell, touch and even taste some of the plants

We will only touch and taste the plants when our Botanical Educator says we can

Afterwards, it is important to wash our hands with soap and water

We are going to learn, explore and have fun at the Adelaide Botanic Garden
