B. Description

5. Description of nominated place or object
Description of the nominated place or object and its current condition:	Located in Adelaide's inner southern suburbs, Highgate Park is currently a 7-acre site with a 140+ year history of caring for the disabled community of South Australia. Highgate Park features several major elements: (1) Gosse International Student Residence - this building opened in 1949 as accommodation for hospital staff but was repurposed in 1997 for university student accommodation. It was named Gosse International Student Residence in honour of Dr William Gosse who worked with Julia Farr and others to raise funds in 1878 to purchase a house (long since demolished) and land in Fisher St, Fullarton (now Highgate Park) to care for the disabled. The Gosse building is currently operating and in good condition and is fully occupied by 63 student tenants. (2) The large footprint, 9-storey Highgate Tower hospital building, which closed in April, 2020, is currently unoccupied and in good condition. (3) The Chapel, which closed in 2020 is in good condition. (4) The Roundhouse administration building which is no longer used is in good condition. (5) A large, beautiful green space, comprising 190 trees, including 19 significant and regulated trees, shrubs and lawns is maintained by a groundsman and in good condition, and (6) Several car parks in fair to good condition.
Are you aware of any modifications or additions to the place or object? Can you provide dates for these changes?	Over the 140+ year history of the Highgate Park site there have been several hospitals, staff accommodation and administrative buildings, and chapels constructed and most demolished. Over the same period, car parks and green spaces have been added and modified at various times on the Highgate Park site.
Do you believe there may be historical items under the ground? Should an archaeological investigation be considered?	On page-37 of Bruce Hopgood's 175-page booklet: 'Home for Incurables Incorporated 1878 to 1981 – Stories and Pictures of Events & Memorabilia' (available at the State Library of SA) photos show relics found under the foundation stone upon demolition of the old East Block. On page-150 of the same booklet Hopgood describes the time capsule that was placed in the Highgate Tower hospital building foyer on 23 September, 1988. There may also be historical items under the ground, or under current buildings on the Highgate Park site, but their location/s would best be determined by examining the archive of information, documents and other materials for the Highgate Park site held by the South Australian government.
Date you inspected the place or object:	I live onsite at Highgate Park as one of 63 tenants at Gosse International Student Residence. I "inspect" Highgate Park every day.
Have you had any contact with the Owner?	Yes, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED]
Current use of the place or object:	63 students live at Gosse International Student Residence on the Highgate Park site. The Highgate Park green space is regularly used by local community members in various for recreation, yoga, exercising their dogs, painting, and photography. Some car parks are used by Gosse student residents and construction personnel working on neighbouring properties.

D. Heritage Significance

7. Statement of State Significance - Why is the place or object important to South Australia?

Highgate Park is of State heritage significance because it is the last, largest, living historic monument for caring for the disabled community in South Australia and goes back to the 1870's. The Gosse building opened in 1949 as hospital staff accommodation and continues to be used as student accommodation. The 9-storey Highgate Park Tower hospital building opened in 1977 and closed in 2020 and is a rare example of Brutalist architecture in South Australia. A time capsule was placed in the Highgate Tower hospital building foyer on 23 September, 1988. Historic relics were found under the foundation stone upon demolition of the old East Block building. Other historic items may lie under the ground or within or under current buildings on the Highgate Park site. Some of the large, mature significant and regulated trees on the Highgate Park site including several Norfolk Pines may be of historic significance.

8. Significance Criteria

The South Australian Heritage Places Act 1993 lists seven criteria by which places are assessed as 'State significant.' Please tick the criteria you feel the place demonstrates and explain your reasons.

<input type="checkbox"/>	It demonstrates important aspects of the evolution or pattern of the State's history.	The existing buildings on the Highgate Park site demonstrate important aspects of the evolution of caring for the disabled community of South Australia.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It has rare, uncommon or endangered qualities that are of cultural significance.	Buildings on the Highgate Park site are rare surviving examples associated with caring for South Australia's disabled community.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It may yield information that will contribute to an understanding of the State's history, including its natural history.	Historic relics have been found during demolition of pre-existing buildings and additional relics may remain undiscovered. A time capsule exists in the foyer of the Highgate Park Tower hospital building. The historic significance of Highgate Park trees, gardens and greenspace should be assessed.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It is an outstanding representative of a particular class of places of cultural significance.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It demonstrates a high degree of creative, aesthetic or technical accomplishment or is an outstanding representative of particular construction techniques or design characteristics.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It has strong cultural or spiritual associations for the community or a group within it.
<input type="checkbox"/>	It has a special association with the life or work of a person or organisation or an event of historical importance.	Highgate Park has special association with the seminal contributions to establishing South Australia's first dedicated facilities to care for the disabled community by the site's founders - Julia Farr and Dr William Gosse
